I am trying to connect from my development machine to my existing MySQL server using SSH. When I am trying to make SSH connection, I am getting this error: Error message: ssh: connect to host kyootech.com port 22: Connection refused In other words, I am not able to get connection to the existing server. But I have seen in my /etc/network/interfaces file that Ethernet device is called eth0. When I change it to eth1, I am able to connect to server. What I want to know is, Can we change device name on Linux network interface on set up? If it is possible, can someone tell me how? If answer to above question is no, why is that 3e33713323
