The present invention relates to a semiconductor chip and the manufacturing method therefor. More particularly, the present invention relates to a semiconductor chip having buried structures and the manufacturing method therefor. A conventional semiconductor chip is described with reference to FIG. 5. In this figure, a reference numeral 1 designates a semiconductor substrate; 2, a device isolation region; 3, a first gate electrode; 4, a buried region; 5, a second gate electrode; 6, a source region; 7, a drain region; 8, a surface portion of a passivation film; and 9, a bonding pad. Next, an outline of a conventional semiconductor chip manufacturing method will be described with reference to FIGS. 6A through 6F. FIGS. 6A, 6B, 6C, 6D and 6E show a conventional semiconductor chip manufacturing method for a conventional semiconductor chip. FIG. 6A shows an outline of a first mask process which is carried out by an exposure system. FIG. 6B shows an outline of a first etching process. FIG. 6C shows an outline of a second etching process. FIG. 6D shows an outline of a buried structure forming process. FIG. 6E shows an outline of a passivation film forming process. FIG. 6F shows an outline of a bonding pad forming process. In FIGS. 6A through 6F, a reference numeral 10 designates a silicon substrate; 11, an element isolation region; 12, a gate insulating film; 13, a gate electrode; 14, a gate side wall insulating film; 15, a gate side wall surface; 16, a source region; 17, a drain region; 18, a surface portion of a passivation film; 19, a bonding pad; 20, an interlayer insulating film; 21, a bonding wire; 22, a bonding pad forming portion; and 23, an aperture exposing the buried region 14. The conventional semiconductor chip manufacturing method is carried out in the following manner. As shown in FIG. 6A, the silicon substrate 10 is annealed at a temperature of about 1100.degree. C. in a nitrogen atmosphere by using a hot plate or a rapid thermal annealing (RTA) system. By the annealing, the surface of the silicon substrate 10 is reformed, thereby improving the characteristics of the impurity diffusion layer and preventing the peeling of the interlayer insulating film 18. What's New in the Adobe Photoshop 2021 (Version 22.3)?

Q: How to synchronize the text cursor? I have an input box, and when I'm typing something in the input box, an element behind the input box with relative position and with the same exact dimensions as the input box is drawn underneath the input box. This is a strange behavior, and it is done by the input box having a z-index of 1 while the overlay element that appears when text is typed has a z-index of 100 (so that's before the input box). The text is rendered inside the input box, and when I stop typing in the input box, the text and the cursor are still inside the input box and it is visible on the screen. And if I keep on typing, the text goes out of the input box and it is no longer visible on the screen, but the cursor in the input box is still visible and cannot be moved. When I stop typing, it seems that the next key stroke somehow moves the cursor to the position where I stopped typing, but it moves to the left by one character instead of one character to the right. I really have no idea of how to resolve this. A: It is really annoying, but this is a bug in Chrome, probably won't be fixed. I saw it the whole day, and in the end I had to make a simple workaround. Basically, when an input box is focused (which is very rare) I set a flag like this: `var C = { position: 0, selected: false, };` Then, when I do the next keystroke, I just check if the cursor is already "selected" and if so, I move it to the next one. `// workaround for bug in Chrome if (document.activeElement.type == "text") { if (!C.selected) { C.position = nextCursorPos; C.selected = true;`
