What's New in the Skypole Monitor?

This module allows the user to input host IP addresses, have them be monitored and notified if the host status changes. It can optionally send email alerts and syslog messages. Scanner A scanner is a software tool designed to search for sensitive files and print them to a printer. Spyware A spyware or "spy tool" is a piece of malware that surreptitiously gathers information about a computer's user, his or her behavior, or even the user's physical location. Spyware programs commonly gather information by, for example, recording keystrokes taking screen shots or video using a webcam recording audio recording phone calls stealing passwords and other data (e.g. e-mail passwords) creating hidden files and installing tools or backdoors to facilitate later espionage (e.g. keyloggers) Tools A "tool" is a computer program that is used for a specific task. Trojan horse A "Trojan horse" is a computer program that appears to perform one task, but actually performs another, more malicious one. Wireless network monitor A "wireless network monitor" (WNM) (also known as "Wi-Fi monitor") is a type of software that can be used to observe and manipulate the management data of wireless networks. Categories According to the computer security and forensic examiner Chris Carter's "What is a Trojan?" article in Forbes Magazine, Trojans are subdivided into categories based on the file they carry or what they do. Scripting Trojans A "Scripting Trojan" (also known as "shellcode", "script-based", or "Malware script") is a computer virus that can be written in a scripting language such as Python, Perl, PHP, VBScript, or JavaScript. These Trojans often rely on the victim's Internet connection to execute. Virus A "Virus" is a virus program that usually is a self-replicating malware. Depending on their purpose, a virus can be: designed to cause damage by deleting files, corrupting the file system, overwriting data in files, inserting data into files, or changing settings in the host computer system designed to infect the host computer system with additional malware programs designed to steal personal information from the host computer system A "backdoor" or "back door" Trojan is a type of malware that automatically takes backups of the infected system and then uploads them somewhere. The goal of the user is to acquire the stolen data. Brute-force cracker A "Brute-force cracker" (also known as "decoder" or "cracker") is a software program that attempts to find the correct password by trying every possible combination of letters, numbers, and symbols.
