.Q: Calculate standard deviation for a non-normal data set I have a set of data points where the lowest of those points is -10 and the highest is +10. It is not symmetrical and not normal distributed. What is a good way to calculate the standard deviation? I have written something that does work but it is too slow to work for larger data sets so I'm wondering if there is a more clever way to compute it. #if data is a list of values  $x = \text{data}[0]$   $x = \min(x)$   $x = \max(x)$   $y = [k$  for  $k$  in  $\text{range}(x)$  if  $x \geq 1$ .
