A high-fantasy action RPG with a rich and deep story and a refreshing atmosphere full of fantasy, challenges and adventure. The action of the game is concentrated within the combat, which features a freedom of action where you can freely move your character, equip weapons and armor, use powerful magic, and move around freely. The story of the game is about a man who was born with a birthmark on his left hand. The birthmark was a call to self-discovery, and he begins to embark upon a journey of self-discovery. He embarks on a journey of self-discovery. User reviews: Overall: Mostly Positive 75 out of 104 Game_Love: Overall: 80% Great game, but I want more! The game is amazing in many ways. Of course, it is a RPG, and it has great gameplay, but what I would really like is more features and progression when compared to other games in the genre. I would like to see some actual stat progression, when you do questing and such. What am I saying? I would like the stat progression to be greater than just "gain stats" and more likely for them to change throughout the game. I would also like more customization when it comes to creating your own class, like not just customizing the appearance, but your stats, too. I would really like some more flexibility when it comes to creating a character, like how you can just create yourself a Paladin and not have to create a Warrior class and customize it, instead just level up your stats and customize your look. I would also like things like "course correction" to be in the game. That way you could create a character who is good in a fight, but is a bit weak in other areas. Sure you could level up various stats to make up for it, but that can be really tedious and I would like some sort of "correction" where my character would be better at doing certain things when I reach a certain level, which would keep things interesting. In short, the game just needs a little more balance. I would give the game an 8.5/10 if it had the features I listed and a completely balanced stat progression.

GAME INFO HISTORY

PROPOSAL By Celestia Goal: Implement a new game mechanic where players can gain resources by destroying an enemy's town and recruit the inhabitants to their own side.

Problems: It was difficult to have a skirmish between you and your enemies. The goal was that all members of the same team are fighting together against the same enemy team, but the reality is that the very wealthy players who have the best equipment would definitely not gather around the poorer team that has very few members. There was no requirement to win in order to be victorious against the enemy team. With the large number of players in the game and the lack of equipment, it was not uncommon for the weaker team to have to retreat after one hit from the stronger team. In such cases, the weaker team had to look for the stronger team again and again. WHAT WOULD BE DIFFERENT IF WE COULD BLOCK? ■ Defeat the enemy when it enters your town ■ Make the enemy team unable to enter your town ■ Make the enemy team unable to attack your town ■ Have the entire town assist your own team ■ Make the entire town attack the enemy ■ Obtain a bonus if the entire town is in the same party as you ■ Obtain a bonus when the town is destroyed ■ Give a bonus to your entire party for clearing the enemy out of your town ■ Obtain a bonus when the entire team is in your town ■ Destroy the enemy's town ■ Make the enemy's squad leader destroy his own town ■ Make the entire enemy team destroy their own town ■ Make your entire squad destroy their own town ■ Make your entire party destroy their own town ■ Obtain a bonus when the entire party is in your town ■ Obtain a bonus when the entire

Can you please look at this, to see if there is any built in function in PHP or Javascript to strip out the style tag and fix the font size? Many thanks

A: Simple answer: The style in your HTML is not a css style, but a client-side style. So you can't use Javascript to check the 'padding' or whatever. You need to look for the client style, if you want to change it. The best solution would be to look at the element after you have loaded the HTML. You can do that with : `if(!$("#container").attr("style")) { // load it via AJAX }` After loading the HTML via AJAX you load the style directly, based on the stylesheet. I hope this helps you.

Q: Xamarin using iOS code in Windows Phone apps I have gotten some help from SO in working with Xamarin on iOS, but have no idea how to do this with Windows phones... Xcode is no longer supported by Apple as an iOS dev suite. I've read up on creating a UI using XAML, but have no idea where to go once I've created it. I'm looking for information on how to take a XCode iOS app, convert it to a Xamarin-Windows app using XAML. Any information would be appreciated... Thanks!

A: Xamarin currently have a Xamarin.iOS solution for WPF. I guess you are able to get this running on the iPhone.

Leicester City FC: The Revelation It's possible that I missed the memo telling me about this game, because, despite not being a massively into the sport, I somehow managed to do it without realising Leicester City had been relegated. I assume, since the game had been billed as "a celebration

Q: In one line python, how to combine a loop with value-result of a function?

Sorry my bad english, need more practice. Say I have a loop inside a function and at the end of the loop I want to do something with the function result, `v=vector([1,3,4])` `def func(i,x):`
`v[0]=v[0]+x` `return v` Wanting the end result to be `v[0]=5` I can do this in two line by saying `v=vector([1,3,4])`
`v=func(0,1)` or I can write the loop inside the function, `v=vector([1,3,4])`
`def func(i,x):` `for i in range(len(v)):`
`v[i]=v[i]+x` `return v` I want to do this in one line like the snippet below,
`v=vector([1,3,4])` `v=func(0,1)` where `1` is the value and the result is `v` at the end of the loop. I'm not sure how to do this in one line. Edit: I can do this, `def`
`func(i,x):` `v=vector([1,3,4])` `v=v+x`
`return v` but I thought there should be a builtin function that does this. A: In vanilla python3: def func(i, x): v = vector([1, 3, 4]) v += x return v should work. In your specific case it would work to use a tuple, like: v = v + (1, 3, 4) See: In python2, you'll have to convert the result of the vector.__iadd__ to a list before doing the addition. def func(i, x): v = vector([1, 3, 4]) v.__iadd__(x)
