Back in October, we began gathering the best plugins of the year. It was a difficult job to choose only four plugins out of a thousand, but luckily we were really happy with what we were able to get. Since then, the future of our plugins has been in the hands of our users, and we are pleased to announce which plugins users voted for as the best of 2016. Downloads This plugin received the most downloads in 2016: In past years, this one would have been second. However, the new algorithm that we implemented a few months ago led us to a different winner and gave it a clear lead. It is really interesting to see how the algorithm is working. The plugin focuses on offering you relevant information on social networks, like the number of followers, likes and views on your posts. This is essential for social media managers as it allows to check how their content is doing on the different channels. It is still the most popular tool to manage your social networks at the moment. This one received the second most downloads: Thanks to the simplicity of the interface and the many features, the favourite of many users, and especially site owners, is the upgrade of the Simplenews. The plugin allows you to create newsletter-style emails easily. The only drawback is that, when someone subscribes, you won't know if the email they receive is the one they were expecting. However, thanks to the brilliant interface, it is super easy to find what you are looking for. This plugin received the third most downloads: It is true that if you just visit the plugin page, you won't see anything about its quality. However, if you read the reviews, you'll find that more than 50% of users recommend it because it delivers quality and helps them improve their performance. As the plugin also allows the user to define a summary of the page (the title and the focus of the page), this will obviously be an asset for users. This plugin received the fourth most downloads:
