PDF-XChange Printer Standard is an all-in-one PDF printer and converter for Windows-based computers. It gives users an easy way to create, convert, and print PDF documents. The software takes all of the hassle out of printing, saving you the trouble of having to find and install a specific printer driver. PDF-XChange Printer Standard is a PDF converter and print driver for Windows. Its interface is made up of two panes: the document-creation pane and the printing pane. The first pane is where you can manipulate the elements of the documents you are trying to print. In addition, a list of options on the left side of the interface lets you select options for the document, such as whether you want all of the pages of the document included in the printing (the default), whether you want specific pages of the document printed, and whether you want the printed document to be rotated. Page-by-page printing is also available, with the documentation for this feature displayed on the right side of the interface. A separate set of options is available for printing, such as the page settings for the document and page insertion settings. Additionally, there is a preview pane that displays a preview of the PDF document. As you navigate from page to page, the preview window will automatically update with the most recent portion of the document. The interface also features a license pane that will display the current license for the program. In the Help pane, you can find help links for managing the document and converting it into a PDF file.Beyonce-Kendrick Lamar Collaboration Billboard Debuts at Number One At the top of Billboard magazine's Hot 100 chart this week is this preview for StarKid, the official music video for which premiered yesterday. "StarKid" debuts at #1. The video for the song is a reimagining of a scene from the movie Finding Nemo -- an adorable boy holding on to a starfish and a sea anemone for comfort. The two creatures appear as the boy, dressed in overalls and sneakers, tries to comfort himself after an encounter with some street urchins. Beyonce and Kendrick Lamar are the featured artists. In other streaming news, Justin Bieber's single, "Sorry," has been the number one song on the Global Streaming Chart for the past nine consecutive weeks. The song's full-length album, Journals, was the best-selling album on the Billboard 200 for the week of March 1
