Q: Implementing a function using a for loop I am in college and this is probably a basic question but I am curious how can a for loop be used to make a function that is defined in the program. This is the function I need to use: Code: void circle (int rad){ int x,y; for(x=-rad,y=-rad;x void circle (int rad){ int x,y; for(x=-rad,y=-rad;x void circle(int rad); int main() { circle(-16); return 0; } // $f(X) = X^2 - 2 \cdot X + 9$ void circle(int rad){ int x = 0, y = 0, x2 = 0, y2 = 0; x = -rad; y = -rad; x2 = rad*rad; y2 = rad*rad; for (x = -rad; x

Film and TV stars including Ant and Dec and Hugh Jackman battle it out on the ice to raise thousands for sick kids. Popular culture icons including Ant and Dec and Hugh Jackman have joined forces with charity The Prince's Trust and ice skating legend Tony Hawk to raise £2.6 million for sick children at the inaugural Ice Factor. The Ice Factor featured famous faces including Chris Evans, Joanna Lumley, Noel Gallagher, Chris Moyles, the cast of EastEnders and the casts of Poldark, Hollyoaks and Dancing on Ice as they battled it out on the ice. The Ice Factor was made at the Ice Palace in Warwickshire, with skaters including Olympic ice hockey medallists Jessica2 and Tony Hawk, who battled it out for a spot on the television show. The world-famous ice rink, which opened in 2003, was designed for dance, martial arts, ice hockey, speed skating and figure skating. The Ice Factor aired on Channel 5 from April 23 and featured surprise appearances from sports personalities such as the England cricket team and the England rugby team, as well as celebrities including Ant and Dec and Hugh Jackman. David Baddiel, the comedian, helped launch The Ice Factor, saying: "I started my career as a disc jockey, so I am a long-suffering ice hockey fan. The Ice Palace in Warwickshire is one of the most fantastic centres to watch ice hockey, with a great sound system and a sense of atmosphere. "After several years of organising charity ice skating events, The Prince's Trust and I decided to get the curling team together for a special fundraiser, with the idea of featuring famous faces. The idea appealed to them, and we ended up with Ant and Dec, Jamie Redknapp, Simon Cowell and a host of other stars. "The whole day was a great success and lots of fun." David and Tony Hawk skated around the rink during the show, with the footage used in the show and Tony Hawk's skate-off. The Ice Factor, which featured the sounds of Neil Diamond, who died last week, and the cast of Soccer AM on television sets around the rink, was produced by The Ice Palace and the organisers. Rimah Stoddart, from The Ice Palace, said: "We're delighted to be able to help raise money for The Prince's Trust and give the charity the exposure
